Technology Tip – Have you shut down your computer lately? When was the last time you ran updates?: As it turns out, computers need to be shut down, restarted, and updated in order to sustain their health and processing capability. Much like a person when they sleep, the computer needs to purge extraneous pieces of information in order to build connections to the relevant information being used more regularly. Other ways you can help your SurfacePro stay healthy are: running software and security updates from trusted sources, and disinfecting your machine with computer wipes. As always, the Technology Support Services Team is here to assist you. Need help or have questions? Come visit us in the Larner Learning Commons, MedEd 132.
