

Dhruv Shah, D.O.
1st Year Child Psychiatry Fellow

Hi, I'm Dhruv and I am so excited to be training in child and adolescent psychiatry in the beautiful environment of Vermont. I've moved around a bit, but mostly grew up in New Jersey. I attended college in New Paltz, at the State University of New York where I studied biology and philosophy. I worked as a ski instructor and on an ambulance but I eventually returned to NJ and moved to Philadelphia for medical school at Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine. I trained in psychiatry at Cooper University Healthcare, a level one trauma center in the city of Camden. I nurtured a passion for caring for the most vulnerable, especially children and adolescents. Now I am looking forward to integrating my love for nature, music, and wellness into my practice of psychiatry.
