Purpose

Our mission at The Robert Larner, M.D. College of Medicine at The University of Vermont is to educate a diverse group of dedicated physicians and biomedical scientists to serve across all the disciplines of medicine; to bring hope to patients by advancing medical knowledge through research; to integrate education and research to advance the quality and accessibility of patient care; and to engage with our communities to benefit Vermont and the world.

We have much to be proud of:

- The commitment to education across all levels is genuine.
- Outstanding faculty who support the teaching mission.
- Faculty members who take their teaching mission seriously and who do a great job of teaching and mentoring.
- Clerkship and residency programs are of high quality and highly reviewed by residents and medical students.
- Formal courses consistently receive high marks for quality.
- Courses are updated regarding content as well as by introducing new learning/instructional approaches and DEI content.
- Courses are revised and new courses are developed to meet changing needs of programs and learners.
- Strong DEI initiatives and active subcommittees in the department with strong champions.
