

Erica Marden, MD
2nd Year Child & Adolescent Psychiatry Fellow

Hi I'm Erica, one of the second-year child and adolescent psychiatry fellows. I grew up in Pennsylvania, attended undergraduate university there, and then moved to Vermont for medical school. I attended the University Of Vermont Larner College Of Medicine and have stayed at the University of Vermont for my adult residency and child and adolescent fellowship.

I have been thrilled with my decision to do my medical school, residency and fellowship training at UVM. The Vermont Family Based Approach integrates evidence-based treatment with family-centered care and this makes our work so fulfilling. I appreciate that the department emphasizes high quality care and wants to ensure that you have the resources and education to provide this care to all of your patients and families.

My clinical interests are treating transitional age youth, especially college-aged youth. I am also interested in health promotion efforts and suicide prevention work. Outside of work I love traveling, reading, spending time outside and enjoying Lake Champlain.
